

Don't Dis Our Abilities Training

This Disability Awareness Training has been created by Young People for Inclusion \(YPI\) and is delivered by young disabled people from Camden and surrounding boroughs. The course aims to provide basic disability awareness training to staff, volunteers and service providers.

By increasing their disability awareness, participants are better equipped to provide quality inclusive services for disabled people. Increasing the accessibility of services means disabled people feel more comfortable and confident using them.

What does the course involve?

The training is fun, interactive and led by young people with disabilities. Each activity focuses on an issue that is important to people with disabilities and aims to raise awareness of disability. The games we have developed focus on topics such as communication, language, getting around and seeing the positive side of disability.

The activities are easily interchangeable and can be adapted to suit your organisation's needs.

What is the aim of the course?

The aim is not to give a set of 'guidelines' on how to interact with people with disabilities, but to get people talking about disability and encourage understanding and awareness. The training is solution-focused and YPI will offer support with relevant issues and advice on best practice.

Participants will gain a greater understanding of issues surrounding disability and feel more confident talking about them. They will develop their ability to communicate with people who communicate differently and learn about legislation relevant to disability rights.

"Along with providing thought provoking training for our staff & volunteers, they also helped us to see that big improvements could be made to our accessibility with a little imagination and a tiny budget!"

"It opened up my eyes."

"I worked alongside them in different projects and always found them a very useful and powerful voice. They would not only tell it like it is but they would also take matters in their own hands and effect change."

YPFI aims to stay in contact with organisations who receive this training to build enduring and positive relationships. By teaching disability awareness to as many key organisations and their staff as possible, Young People For Inclusion hope to improve the lives of disabled people and increase inclusion in London.
